The Southeast Louisiana Flood Protection Authority-West has launched a Web site it says will help West Bank families and businesses be prepared for future floods and keep current on project progress.

The site, www.slfpaw.org, provides information on storm surge-related flood threats, information by ZIP code on flood-control projects under way and tips on how to apply for things like levee permits.

The authority provides flood protection for nearly all of the West Bank in Jefferson and Orleans parishes. It is made up of the West Jefferson Levee District and the Algiers Levee District.
